Privacy Collection Statement

Professional Standards Office, Queensland, may collect, use and disclose personal information about you in accordance with the Privacy Act 1988 (Cth), which includes the Australian Privacy Principles. We may also collect personal information from third parties acting on your behalf, and/or from third parties involved in managing an enquiry, disclosure of information, grievance or complaint concerning you.

We collect personal information for the purposes of implementing policies, principles and procedures for responding to Church related abuse and misconduct complaints, arranging pastoral care for victims of sexual, physical and emotional abuse by church personnel, managing enquiries, disclosures of information, grievances and complaints falling under the jurisdiction of the Professional Standards Office, Queensland, facilitating our internal business operations, including the fulfilment of any legal requirements. If the personal information you provide is incomplete or inaccurate, we may not be able to provide you with the services you seek or take full action on that information.

We may disclose personal information about you to law enforcement bodies, our related entities and other organisations with whom we have affiliations, including the Australian Catholic Centre for Professional Standards and other State Professional Standards Offices, and third party service providers who assist us in operating our business (including information technology service providers). We may disclose your personal information overseas if the information, disclosure, enquiry, grievance or complaint relates to or involves Church personnel based overseas.

Our privacy policy which can be accessed on our website or on request, sets out how you can access and ask for correction of your personal information, how you can complain about privacy-related matters, and how we respond to complaints.
